The Art of Fermentation presented by Sandor Ellix Katz

Sandor Ellix Katz is a fermentation revivalist. His book Wild Fermentation (2003), which Newsweek called "the fermenting bible," and the hundreds of fermentation workshops he has taught across North America and beyond, have helped to catalyze a broad revival of the fermentation arts. According to the New York Times, "Mr. Katz has become for fermentation what Timothy Leary was for psychedelic drugs: a charismatic, consciousness-raising thinker and advocate who wants people to see the world in a new way." His latest book, The Art of Fermentation (2012), was an immediate best-seller. A self-taught experimentalist, Katz lives in Cannon County, Tennessee.
